

Josef Bártil

Diagnostic Laboratories for Inherited Metabolic Disorders;

Department of Pediatrics and Inherited Metabolic Disorders, General University Hospital in Prague

Czech Republic

Josef Bártil received his PhD at Charles University in Prague, Faculty of Science, Analytical Chemistry, focusing on LC-MS/MS applications for diagnosis of inherited metabolic diseases. Since 2005 he has been engaged in clinical diagnostics at Diagnostic Laboratories for Inherited Metabolic Disorders, Department of Pediatrics and Inherited Metabolic Disorders, General University Hospital in Prague, Czech Republic. He is involved in implementation and validation of LC-MS/MS and HPLC method into clinical laboratory and he is also member of newborn laboratory screening team in the field of metabolic disorders.